This teleseminar is an offering to all women in the aftermath of the Supreme Court's decision to deny women their basic human right to choose how to be in their body. Terminating spirit life in the womb is safest in a controlled clinical setting, which fewer women now have legal access to. Throughout time, women have turned to herbs to control their pregnancies, with results ranging from success to death. Should you find yourself in a situation where you need to use the information presented in this teleseminar, please seek any help available to mitigate risks — even a sister standing by her phone or computer should you need her. As always, each situation and each person is unique and no claim, promise or guarantee of safety or effectiveness is being made by this teleseminar or its producers.

** By registering for this teleseminar, you indicate that you understand that herbal abortion may be dangerous and agree to hold us harmless in the event you experiment with it.**

THE CONSTITUTION IS BEING HELD HOSTAGE

The Constitution Is Whatever the Right Wing Says It Is. The Supreme Court majority's undead constitutionalism is transforming right-wing media tropes into law.

A WORD ABOUT WOMEN AND THE US CONSTITUTION BY THE AUTHOR OF THE HANDMAID'S TALE

Novelist Margaret Atwood wrote "The Handmaid's Tale."

She says: "The Constitution has nothing to say about women's reproductive health. But the original document does not mention women at all.

"Women were deliberately excluded from the franchise. Although one of the slogans of the Revolutionary War of 1776 was 'No taxation without representation,' and government by consent of the governed was also held to be a good thing, women were not to be represented or governed by their own consent—only by proxy, through their fathers or husbands.

"Women could neither consent nor withhold consent, because they could not vote. That remained the case until 1920, when the Nineteenth Amendment was ratified, an amendment that many strongly opposed as being against the original Constitution. As it was.

"Women were nonpersons in U.S. law for a lot longer than they have been persons. If we start overthrowing settled law using Justice Samuel Alito's justifications, why not repeal votes for women?"
